Germans Claim 8th Army Opens New Offensive

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The German broadcast communique today claimed that a new large scale attack had been opened during the night by the British 8th Army moving up the Adriatic coast of Italy.

The German claim, not mentioned by Allied sources, said the "centre of gravity of the attack" was reported at Furl, on the Bologna-Rimini highway, less than 20 miles from the Adriatic coast.

The enemy communique, denouncing the battlefield fighting by searchlights, said "enemy artillery and battalions active developed violence almost unprecedented here."

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—British 8th Army troops, after strong enemy resistance have cleared the Germans out of the Conza river loop less than four miles southeast of Faenza and captured a few more villages in substantial gains in that area south of the Bologna-Rimini highway. Allied headquarters announced today.

Polish troops of the 8th Army have continued their advance farther west beyond bitter-contested Mount Fortino and captured the villages of Orto, San Ruffino and San Mameto.

Only action reported along the Allied 5th Army front was carried out by Indian troops who occupied high ground north of Modigliana.

Report Ontario Plans to Double Ration of Liquor

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—(CP)—The Telegram yesterday said that reports at Queen's Park were that Ontario's monthly liquor ration of 26 ounces will be increased to 52 ounces for the month of December.

It quoted Liquor Commissioner V. T. O'Brien as saying the report "has no merit." The story said the liquor supply situation is being corrected, and if it is found there are sufficient supplies the quota may be doubled or possibly an additional 14 ounces will be made available.

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, PARIS, Nov. 23.—(CP-Reuters)—French troops are now fighting in Strasbourg.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The famous French 2nd Armored Division of Maj. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc dashed 18 miles across the level Rhine plain today into the outskirts of Strasbourg, largest French city still in German hands.

Meanwhile, troops of the British 2nd Army cut a big new gap in the German bridgehead in front of the Dutch city of Venlo with the capture of Horst, important road communications centre three miles north of Sevens.

In the so-called heavily fortified Roer River valley 26 miles from Cologne, German divisions threw a series of counter-attacks at the U.S. 8th Army despite the loss of more than 75 tanks in the week-long battle, the fortified zone approaching the Rhine.

PROBING DISSOLVING

The whole German front in the south was dissolving. The French, who had fought across the Sahara wastes and helped Marshal Montgomery break the March Line guarding Tunisia, encountered only light resistance. The Germans obviously were scurrying across the swift and broad Rhine by any means at hand. The fate of six to 10 divisions of the German 19th Army was in issue, only some weathered survivors from the slaughter from Allied air power.

The French tanks and guns raced through the Saverne gap southeast of Metz to reach Strasbourg at the Rhine, a strongly fortified trade and industrial centre on Page 2, Col. 4.

City Considering Detention Home

Consideration is being given by civic officials to the urgent appeal for a new detention home for juveniles in the city, it was learned Thursday at the Civic block.

Mayor John W. Fry, City Commissioner R. J. Gibb, Chief of Police Reginald Jennings and Frank Drayton, city relief department, inspected the present detention home Thursday, but made no statement on the result of their visit.

That something must be done to provide a real detention home is evidenced by the recent jail break of nine boys lodged in the jail.

It is understood that representations will be made to the provincial government by the city commission to have a detention home erected in Edmonton with both provisions sharing the costs of the centre.

The need for such a home has been emphasized by Max Reg. G. Jennings, and Chief of Police Jennings said, at the time of the recent jail break, that the facilities now provided were inadequate to cope with the situation being imposed through juvenile crime.

CGTA Candidate Wins at Calgary

CALGARY, Nov. 23.—(CP)—V. A. Newhall, Calgary Government and Taxpayers' Association candidate, was elected city councillor here today.

The successful CGTA candidate defeated the incumbent, Reg. G. Jennings, by a margin of 227 over 227 people.

The four successful CGTA candidates for alderman were: Ald. F. R. Freese, who topped the poll with 2,574 votes; J. M. Clark, a newcomer, 2,344 votes; Ald. G. C. Leachman, elected on the second count with 2,129 votes; and Ald. Reg. G. Smith, elected on the ninth count with 2,072 votes.

Ald. R. T. Alderman, CCF, and Ald. G. M. Brown, Ind., were both elected on the first count.

Army Inquiry

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. W. E. Sansom of Kingston, Ont., has been appointed by Defence Minister McNaughton to investigate and report on statements made in Vancouver Monday by high-ranking officers of the Canadian Army's 8th division who said they did not believe overseas troops could be reinforced by high-ranking officers of the service, it was learned Tuesday that until he had "full knowledge of all the facts and circumstances" he could make no comment on the officers' statements.

Legion Chief Approves Order On Conscription

Announcement of the passing of an order-in-council enabling conscription of home defence troops for overseas service was received with satisfaction by Harold E. Tanner, president of the Legion.

"Action of the government at last confirms the correctness of the stand taken by the Canadian Legion from the start of the war," Mr. Tanner stated.

"The Legion pressed from the start for an all-out war effort and we are very glad to learn that government action on conscription for overseas has been finally taken."

He hoped the action will be of assistance to the many young men who have been wounded or have served overseas for such long periods. I think they should be given the opportunity of being sent back to the front.

"And now that the government has acted by making conscription for overseas the law it must be enforced with absolute fairness and equality of service in every province of Canada."

Mr. Tanner said that "if the 16,000 authorized overseas troops are required immediately, then as a result of the action the government might do something to alleviate it."

"If this is not sufficient to make the required replacements then the number should be raised, I am thinking not only of bringing the army up to strength, but also of relief that should be provided for these soldiers who have been overseas for some considerable time, and also those who have been wounded."

"In this situation we might have a military situation that would be a real disaster to the country, and the action of the government might do something to alleviate it."

NO COMMENT
Hon. Solon E. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party, withheld immediate comment on Gen. McNaughton's statement. He said a statement would be issued after he had studied the new order.

Premier Ernest Manning also withheld a statement, said he would not comment. He suggested that there would be a significant move for a Dominion general election and might bring about resignations of Quebec members of the cabinet.

Partial Conscription Plan Announced by McNaughton

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Defence Minister McNaughton told the Commons today that 16,000 draftee home defence soldiers will be sent to the European theatre of operations. He said an order-in-council under the provisions of the National Resources Mobilization Act has been passed to this effect.

This, he explained, is the number required to meet foreign reinforcements needs for overseas infantry formations over and above those likely to be available under the voluntary system.

The announcement came at the end of the new minister's first speech to the House, one made by courtesy of the members, since he has not yet been elected and in which he discussed the reinforcement situation frankly.

Premier Reads Order to House On Draftee Use

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today read to the Commons an order-in-council authorizing the sending of 16,000 draftees to battle areas overseas where they may be required.

The Progressive Conservative opposition at once indicated it desired "total conscription" without limitation on the number of the 60,000 home defence army men who will be available for overseas.

By imposing partial conscription for overseas the government is making use of authority granted it under Bill 80 in 1942.

Previous orders under bill 80 authorized their use in the West Indies, Alaska, the Aleutian Islands, Labrador and Newfoundland.

"Word of the resignation came from an authoritative source in parliamentary circles," the newspaper said, adding that it had given rise to rumors that "other cabinet members will shortly announce their intention of resigning."

Tells House

Premier Hopes No Dissolution While War On

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the Commons he would do all in his power to prevent dissolution of the House while Canadians still are at the front.

Mr. King made his comment after Gordon Gray, leader of the Conservative House leader, had said there was a question of confidence in the government.

Mr. King said he was confident of support given him in the House. Members in all parts of the House had asked that he stay in office for the war was over.

CONFIDENCE MOTION

Mr. King said he regarded a motion standing in his name on the order-in-council for support of the House to the government in the war effort as a motion of confidence.

Mr. King made the statement during a discussion on procedure of the special sitting of the House to discuss reinforcements.

The motion to which the prime minister referred appeared on the Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.

Compulsory Service Issue
Is Certain to Face Test
Of Opinion in Commons

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—The issue of compulsory overseas service came squarely before a tense House of Commons yesterday.

Recalled to the capital, as Prime Minister Mackenzie King said, because of the controversy which arose over the resignation Nov. 1 of Col. J. L. Ralston as defence minister, members of the Commons were presented at once with a Progressive Conservative motion which would test opinion on the issue.

The motion was not dealt with immediately because the required notice had not been given under the rules, but it was taken for granted it would come up again later.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, moved that the full provisions of the National Resources Mobilization Act be applied and the home defence troops be made available as overseas reinforcements. The speaker said he could not receive such a motion without notice.

Mr. Graydon said the problem "should be tackled this afternoon" as the people of Canada desire. There should be no delay in introducing reinforcements needed.

DEBATE IS URGED
"We feel now this afternoon we should commence a debate to bring before parliament the real issue," he said.

The issue was that all trained troops in the home defence army should be sent overseas at once. Mr. Graydon said he understood Mr. King would present a government motion yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Graydon then moved that the House express the opinion that the full provisions of the NRMMA be brought into effect and that trained troops in the home defence army should be dispatched overseas immediately.

Speaker J. A. Glen said he wondered if Mr. Graydon realized that there was nothing before the House.

"We are trying to get something done," said Hon. H. B. Hanson (PC—York-Sunbury).

MUST OBSERVE RULES
Mr. Glen said certain rules had to be observed before "you can get something there." No notice of the motion had been received. Under the rules, 48 hours notice had to be given of such motions.

"But there is a war," said several members in Progressive Conservative ranks.

Mr. Glen said he had no authority to submit the motion to the House or to ask the members for unanimous consent to discuss the motion.

He felt he could not accept the motion because it was not in conformity with the rules.

Then Speaker Glen gave his ruling. Mr. J. Goldwell, leader of the PC party began.

Mr. Goldwell said Gen. McNaughton had earned the high regard of Canada.

A. W. Neill (Ind-Com-Alberta) rose to ask what was before the House.

RECOGNITION GIVEN
Speaker Glen said the Prime Minister had made a statement and remarks might be made on it.

Recognition had been given leaders of different parties in the House, and Mr. Goldwell called on the PC party began.

Mr. Goldwell said he considered it the proper course to allow members to study the correspondence and act in a judicial capacity.

The government should give the House every scrap of information possible and not hide behind the excuse of giving comfort to enemy by disclosing information. In such event, there should be a private session.

Thrown into the open, however, were details of the behind the scenes battle Col. Ralston waged with Mr. King and the cabinet.

Mr. Goldwell said he believed in his efforts to have the drafted home defence army of 60,000 dispatched overseas to reinforce Canada's volunteer fighting army formations.

This came when Mr. King read a series of seven letters between himself and the former minister starting with Col. Ralston's letter of resignation.

ELECTION INEVITABLE
In a letter dated Nov. 10, Mr. King said a general election would be "an almost inevitable consequence" of any attempt to introduce overseas conscription at this stage of the war.

In an earlier letter, Nov. 3, he had dealt at some length with the views of our constituents he felt would result from an election on the conscription issue.

"I can think of no course fraught with greater danger to our war effort—to say nothing of the unity and strength of Canada today and for generations to come—than a general election at this late stage of the war on the conscription issue," he said.

In his letter of resignation, Nov. 1, Col. Ralston made reference to some of his cabinet colleagues supporting his view that the government was committed to the compulsory use of home defence forces as reinforcements should voluntary efforts fail.

SOME EXCEPTED
At one point he spoke of "certain colleagues" being excepted from the general cabinet view that there was no such commitment in the speech made by Mr. King when legislation giving the government power to introduce overseas conscription was before the house in 1942.

With the letters before them the discussions at Quebec . . .

Mr. King said in a Nov. 3 letter that he was prepared to follow the course outlined in his 1942 speeches if that course was ever necessary "but I do not believe that it will have become necessary."

Premier, Ralston at Odds
On Meaning of 'Necessary'

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Definition of the word "necessary" occupied a portion of the correspondence tabled in the Commons yesterday with Prime Minister Mackenzie King having the final word—that he still held to widely-quoted 1942 phrase "conscription if necessary; not necessarily conscription."

Mr. King spoke the phrase when he said a bill to make home defence troops available for overseas service by order-in-council.

Mr. King said in a Nov. 3 letter that he was prepared to follow the course outlined in his 1942 speeches if that course was ever necessary "but I do not believe that it will have become necessary."

Jobless Benefits

Being Exhausted

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23.—(CP)—

For the first time since introduction of unemployment insurance in Canada an appreciable number of unemployed men and women in B.C. are exhausting their unemployment benefits. E. W. Thomas, regional officer, said in an interview here yesterday.

A considerable number of unemployed workers—most of them women—already have drawn all unemployment benefits they are entitled to.

However, the situation as yet is not serious, said Mr. Thomas, since the majority of unemployed who have used up their benefits are married women in receipt of other funds.

The problem is not that jobs are not available but that the unemployed—mainly women—are not willing to take the lower paying jobs that are available.

Cuban Officers Flee to Mexico To Save Lives

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A number of high Cuban army officers arrived here yesterday by plane from their country, fearing death, they said, if they remained.

The refugees said that many others of the group of 187 officers, including generals, who had been dismissed by President Grau San Martín, would arrive here.

The officers said they feared death at the hands of "irresponsible persons" and especially 5,000 armed students who were helping the police in "keeping order" throughout the island.

15 relatives here were notified yesterday. Born in Saskatchewan, Col. Blair was educated in Calgary and went overseas with the 1st Canadian Trench Battalion in 1912. His widow and daughter, Judith Ann, live in Calgary.

Whittling It Down

When the February refinancing operation has been completed, Edmonton's bonded debt will have been reduced more than $10,000,000. The city's bonded debt is now $20,000,000, and the refinancing operation will reduce it to $10,000,000. The city's bonded debt is now $20,000,000, and the refinancing operation will reduce it to $10,000,000.

There has been a reduction in each of the years, and the reductions have increased yearly in amount. The position will be, when the February refinancing has been finished, that the city's bonded debt from around $22,000,000 to approximately $18,000,000.

This obviously is cutting down the municipal liabilities on the western front. War conditions have helped in two directions. Civic revenue has been high, and scarcity of labor and materials enforced the curtailment of the expenditure. And the city's bonded debt is out of view, perhaps the fact that the Fortin plan reduced the debenture debt rather than extend interest on the city's bonds.

As the result of having to live within its income, and of the city's bonded debt being in a position in which the debt charges will be a comparatively light drain on revenue. That is to say, tax-money can be spent more largely in the making of improvements than there has been possible for many years. There is an encouraging prospect that borrowing will be reduced in the future, and the finance some particularly early project or to create or expand a revenue-producing enterprise.

Another Big Army Gone
Early this week the count of prisoners captured on the western front was 1,000, 1940, and the figure now is probably beyond the 700,000 mark. Since the enemy has been fighting savagely most of the time since D-day, the number of prisoners and wounded must run to a similar total. If so, there are about 1,500,000 fewer Nazis in the western theatre than there were six months ago.

Of the eight Allied armies engaged, two captured more prisoners than the Canadian First Army. The reason is that the Canadian captured the enemy's corresponding number of casualties. There are no recorded instances of enemy forces having surrendered to them in large numbers without a fight, or having given up more readily than on other sectors.

On their present basis of organization, the prisoners taken by the Canadian are the equivalent of 69 German divisions. If the casualties have been as numerous, about 140 enemy divisions have been destroyed in the west since June 6th.

This loss of manpower has taken place in a new theatre, and means an acceleration of the rate of enemy losses on all fronts. The time has gone when it was only wishful thinking to suppose that Hitler was running short of reinforcements. That has now become a mathematical certainty.

Hard Wood From Soft
As a result of wartime research, one of Canada's great chemical concerns announces the discovery of a substance known as Arbondex, useful in treating wood by a new process.

Wood, it is said, is transmuted by impregnating it with Arbondex to impart to it entirely new properties and characteristics. The process, which was announced last April, makes soft woods hard, hard woods harder, minimizes their tendency to shrink or warp, and improves their durability and strength.

As a result, the process is expected to bring many improvements, such as wood products of greater strength, and wood products that will last longer, wear and tear less, wood with pleasing new colors, not only on the outside but also through the paint and varnish and doors that have less tendency to stick in damp weather; wood more resistant to surface damage and easier to repair.

not more remarkable than the change of tone.

Long since the broadcasters ceased to predict an Axis victory just about the corner. For these prophecies they substituted the urgent plea to all citizens to exert themselves to the utmost possible limit to avert defeat. But now they are almost adverting defeat, but only to postpone it.

The Allied offensive, the radio men tell their hearers, has "not yet reached its peak." It is a "big battle," a "big battle of material," may well place the German forces "in a precarious position," for it is doubtful that they can withstand "the onslaught of packed power."

This is strange language to come from the radio which a while ago were spurring the faithful on to triumph by telling them Russia was already beaten and the West Wal imprecable. The change has certainly not come about because of Nazi love of truth.

It is a wonder that Himmler does not clap Gorbels and his broadcast colleagues. Perhaps the reason is that while Himmler controls the gestapo the General Staff controls the army and the radio, and can set the German propaganda machine to work. It is behind the fact that the German people have accepted defeat as inevitable, and is only concerned that the Allies might concede a negotiated peace rather than pay the price.

It is a short despatch, but it signifies a good deal. London, Nov. 16.—Beginning Dec. 10th the Ministry of Food will allocate raw materials for the cream, which Britons have not eaten since 1942.

A Swiss report says Himmler has arrested 100 German soldiers who refused to fight. It is the implication that he has been released after being arrested some weeks ago for taking part in a plot to overthrow Hitler, that "Adolf" seemed likely.

A Nazi submarine sank Iceland's largest passenger vessel, without warning of course, drowning the entire crew and all the passengers aboard. In any case, when he said the other day that "almost the whole world" is banded together to make an end of Nazism, strange, surely!

Text of King-Ralston Correspondence

You say, "Our differences are fundamental on the vital matter of reinforcing our troops, and consequently, as requested by you, we must tender my resignation as minister of national defence." Surely you are in error when you say that "our differences are fundamental on the vital matter of reinforcing our troops." From the outset, the government has been agreed that the matter of reinforcing our troops was "vital."

Mr. King to Col. Halston, Nov. 10: I have duly received your letter of Nov. 7. It seems to call for one or two observations.

District News in Brief

Anglican Rector Inducted at Olds

OLDs.—The Rev. A. D. Currie and Mrs. Currie left Olds on Wednesday for Brooks. The Rev. Currie, who has been in Olds for some time, has taken up residence at the rectory, 1000 Main street. He is the rector of St. John's Anglican church Wednesday evening by Bishop Ragsdale of Calgary.

Pastor's Daughter Married at Bruce

BRUCE.—A ceremony of the Bruce Free Methodist church last Saturday, the Rev. L. Freitag, father of the bride, performed the marriage ceremony of his daughter, Dorothy Pearl, to Kenneth Ed. Lark, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lark of Brighouse and Brighouse. The bride was escorted by pink and white roses with white ribbons to match.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white sheer crepe, cut on the line, with a high collar and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Two tiny flower girls, Ethel and Shirley Nolan, were dressed in pale yellow tulle, and carried bouquets of pink and cream roses. The best man was Leonard Grever of Basildon.

Later a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. L. Freitag. For a honeymoon trip the bride wore a tailored ensemble with black accessories. The couple will be at home later in Edmonton.

Calmar District Bids Farewell to Pioneer Residents

CALMAR.—To bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Faulkner, residents of the Constance Lake district for 42 years, more than 300 friends and neighbors gathered at a banquet in Calmar. The evening was done by the ladies of the CCWV, assisted by a number of high school girls. The occasion was sponsored by a committee representative of the many community organizations of which Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner have been officers and members. E. R. Cook acted as chairman and was supported by Walter Percy on behalf of those present.

Ratepayers Meet Held at Glendon

GLENDON.—At a meeting of ratepayers of the Municipal District of St. Vincent No. 22 held in the Glendon Community hall a proposal to amalgamate with the large MD of St. Paul was discussed. One of the main reasons for opposing the small attendance at the meeting, a resolution was passed that petition forms be circulated to get the opinion of the majority of the ratepayers.

A successful seed exhibit was held last week in the local high school. William Selatnik was the organizer. Present on behalf of the department of agriculture was Paul Gibreau, St. Paul and Mr. Hallman of Edmonton. There were 14 exhibitors and the prize winners were Constantine Selatnik, Meteo Selatnik and Albert Michalski.

Young Clive Boy Wins Top Honors

Arnold has previously won several money prizes by his talent and has invested his winnings in Victory Bonds.

A funeral service was held at the Clive Baptist church for Mrs. P. Kent who died suddenly at her farm home, near North Dakota, the cause of Clive in 1936. Surviving are her husband, three children, Mrs. E. Gallagher, Lester and Ralph at home and seven brothers and one sister.

McCooy Health Service

The chest contains two of the vital organs, the lungs and the heart. The lungs are the lowest part of the breathing system, which system also includes the bronchial tubes, the windpipe, the throat, and the nose.

Each lung is enclosed in a special kind of membrane called a pleura, being attached in such a way that the lung has plenty of room to move while in and out movements of breathing are going on.

There are several disorders of the chest which are important, such as bronchitis, tuberculosis, pneumonia and pleurisy. Two of the symptoms commonly associated with trouble of the chest are coughing and pain. Bronchitis may occur in either an acute or chronic form and refers to an inflammation of the bronchial tubes. The character istic symptom of bronchitis is a cough which may be accompanied by a severe irritation just beneath the breast bone.

Possibly the chest disorder most feared by the average person is tuberculosis. This disease develops insidiously as a rule and in the first stage the patient may think merely that he is "run-down" and may not realize the seriousness of the situation.

The early symptoms are weakness, tired easily, a slight cough, and perhaps a feeling of heaviness through the chest.

The patient having a tendency toward tuberculosis may bring on the disease by the practice of those faulty habits of living which produce overexhaustion and lower resistance. Improper food, lack of sleep, lack of exercise and fresh air, constipation, all of these, apparently contributed toward building up the lowered resistance which will allow tuberculosis to get a start, providing the patient has a predisposition toward its development.

Plugging refers to an inflammation of a pleura and is accompanied by the throwing out of fluid into the pleural cavity. The patient complains of a sharp, stabbing pain which is made worse with each breath.

The fortunate fact about most diseases is that they are preventable. With proper regard for good habits of living it is generally possible to avoid them entirely.

Fresh air, a diet of exercise, correct food, good posture and breathing properly will do much to build a more healthy chest. And after all, that is what we all want, health for ourselves and for our children.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 120 words. Address: McCooy Health Service, The McCooy Building, 1111 West 8th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

After receiving his commission he was stationed for a short time at No. 2 AGTS, Calgary. His father is a yardmaster on the NAR at McLennan.

Calmar Founder Dies at Home

CALMAR.—Pioneer resident and founder of the town of Calmar, C. Blomquist, died at his home in Calmar on Sunday, Nov. 19. He was 78 years old. He named the town of Calmar after his home town of Kalmar, Sweden.

Appointed a delegate by a group of Scandinavian settlers of the Dakota to find a likely place for future settlement, Mr. Blomquist followed Miss V. Kwanick, editor of the Dakota press, to the North Dakota prairie arrived a year later. In 1888 Mr. Blomquist helped to build the first school here. He also operated the post office for 13 years.

Always taking a keen interest in community affairs, he served on the school board for 40 years and for 20 years was a member of the Liberty Municipal District council. He was married in 1891 and celebrated his golden wedding in 1941. Surviving are his wife, two sons, Jack of Calmar and Andrew of Thorby, one daughter Doris of Calmar, also five grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon in the Calmar hall. The Rev. J. A. Vickman officiated and burial took place in the Swedish Lutheran cemetery.

Use of his new garage as quarters for the school. Class hours will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Young men of the district from 16 to 35 years old are eligible and a shop fee of $1 will be charged. Not less than 10 students will be taken and not more than 30. The course will be on the overhaul and repair of tractors and farm implements.

Army Doctors—And Penicillin—Win Dramatic Fight For Life Wins in a Breeze

Canadian Railwaymen Push Supplies to Front

Rushed to Rideau Military Hospital in Ottawa dangerously ill with spinal meningitis, Pte. Betty Grace Wood of the Canadian Women's Army Corps was saved when army doctors made a quick diagnosis of her illness and pitted the wonder drug—penicillin—against the malady that at one time had a sixty percent death rate. The pretty Helena Lake, Sask., girl will soon be back at her Army draughting job, none the worse for her dramatic week-long battle against death though this is one of the first cases in Canada where penicillin alone has been used successfully to fight spinal meningitis. At top left Betty is pictured receiving an injection of penicillin via the arm muscle, with Army Nursing Sister Bessie C. Douglas administering the drug. At right the penicillin is being given by the intravenous injection method in a mixture of penicillin, glucose and water, which saved puncturing the sick girl's body with more needles than were absolutely necessary. Below the patient, well on the way to recovery, is congratulated by Capt. L. N. Stewart, radiologist on the Rideau Military Hospital staff.

Thanks to a studio-made breeze, RKO Actress Laraine Day is able vividly to live up to her nickname of "zephyr girl".

Belgian Beauty

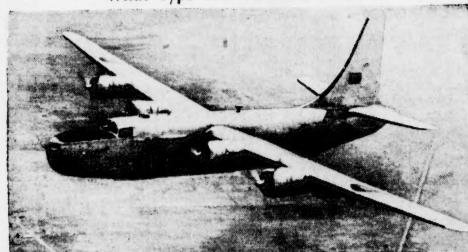

LAC. Michael Ewaszyn of Windsor, Ont., looks pretty enthusiastic about his Belgian dancing partner at a party held in Brussels for members of the RCAF. She seems to think Canadians are all right, too.

Canadian railwaymen who used to catch the highball sign that sent loads of passengers and freights along the steel rails leading to all parts of Canada are now catching the same sign in France as they route war material from the numerous bases to the front lines. Since D-Day the progress of the European invasion has been measured not only in the clash of arms at the fighting fronts, but also by the transport of the necessary supplies with which to carry on the attack. In this difficult and vital important battle of supply, Canadian railwaymen have played a vital and important part. Upper left shows Cpl. Joe Sigouin, Cochrane, Ont., a former Canadian Pacific Railway employee, giving the signal to shunt cars loaded with vital war material in a French railway yard. Lower left, Spr. Ron Geldhart, Moncton, N.B., and Spr. Morley Thompson, Hudson Bay Junction, Sask., both formerly with the Canadian National Railway, receive orders from Capt. G. K. Brown, Asbestos, Que., yard dispatcher. Upper right, a railway turntable operated by manpower due to its motor being hit by Allied airmen. Left to right: Cpl. Ed. Turnbull, Melville, Sask., Sgt. Carl Montenegro, Lindsay, Ont. (both formerly with Canadian National Railways); and Super Fred Bush, Verdun, Que. Lower right: Sapper Ed. Shell, Uxbridge, Ont., another member of the Canadian Railway Operating unit in France, cleans the flues of a French locomotive.

What Type of Aircraft Is This?

You couldn't possibly know unless you were in on the secret. It is the AL 504, Royal Air Force Transport Command Liberator, so modified that it is the only one of its kind in the world. Known as a "Commando" it has logged more than 400,000 miles travelling on historical war missions and special flights to every part of the globe and it is the most famed aircraft operating out of Canada. Recently, it inaugurated the new Canada-Australia regular air service. Some months ago the standard stabilizer fins of an orthodox Liberator were removed and a single tail, 31 ft. from the ground and highest, fitted to any aircraft, was substituted. Seven feet were added to the length of the aircraft to permit installation of arm chair seats, beds and an electric kitchenette. As the "Commando" was unique, the photograph could not previously be published, but is now released because there is no likelihood that on future special missions the aircraft will be within range of enemy attack.

Yvonne Pays Off Her Bet

Film Starlet Yvonne De Carlo, Vancouver's "most beautiful girl in the world," kisses Staff Sgt. Jack Santos of Napa, Calif., as she pays off an election bet she lost to Actress Martha Driscoll, right. Miss De Carlo bet on Thomas E. Dewey and had to kiss the first 50 servicemen she met on the Hollywood boulevard.

Nazi Prisoners Taken By Canadians

In the fierce and at times fanatical fighting by the Huns, in an attempt to stem the tide of Canadians sweeping through the Scheldt district of Holland, many Nazi prisoners were taken and the Canucks continued on inland. Picture at top shows prisoners, resting on a canal bank watching Canadian men and vehicles move up to battle. They were on their way down the line to prison cages. Below, with a typical Dutch windmill as a background, a Canadian convoy moves forward to join in the fighting in an important canal zone. After meeting stiff resistance, Canadians captured the sector.

Canadian Tanks on the Move in Holland

Close on the heels of the Hun retreating through Holland, these Canadian tanks round a bend in the road during their recent advance in the heavy fighting on the Dutch-Belgian frontier.

Canadians Enjoy Corn on the Cob

Right near the Dutch-Belgian frontier these lucky lads find a bin full of corn, and immediately have a meal of corn on the cob—just like at home. In this picture are Gnr. M. B. Jeffery, Halifax, Gnr. W. Weston, Hastings, Ont., and Gnr. G. E. Keeshy, Wainwright, Ont.

Canadians Face New Obstacles in Holland Battles

holes and blast them off the road. On the right is a cross-section of inundated Holland, caused when Jerry smashed dykes to hold up the Canucks' advance.

Convention Ends

Reconstruction After War
By Taxation and Borrowing
Impossible Premier Warns

Warning Albertans of difficulties ahead in the field of post-war rehabilitation, Premier Ernest Manning Wednesday declared it will be utterly impossible to finance adequate post-war programs in Canada by re-aligning fields of taxation and by borrowing money needed.

Speaking at a Social Credit party rally in the MacDonald hotel, the premier concluded the Alberta Social Credit convention sessions of the Alberta Social Credit League. Co-speaker with Mr. Manning at the function was Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Approximately 600 persons attended the rally, of which Robert D. Jorgensen, Social Credit league president, was chairman.

Mr. Manning, whose topic was "The Great Delusion," said public thought in Canada today is being deliberately directed to the belief that the people can obtain the benefits of security, prosperity and freedom by following a course that is being charted for them within the restrictions of the present monetary system. "The real delusion," he said, "is the great delusion, the premier stated."

DANGEROUS WEAPON

Mr. Fallow charged the field of radio has been taken into the field of financial control, because it is too dangerous a weapon in the hands of free people. He said the CBC board of governors has denied the government a commercial broadcasting licence, and in so doing put the rights of one individual ahead of the rights of 80,000 people of the province.

"The people of Canada are being deliberately directed to the belief that Canadians can get the results they want—security, prosperity and freedom—if they go down a course restricted and controlled by financial orthodoxy," said Mr. Manning.

"There is absolutely no hope of Canadians reaching the goal they want if they hold to that course," he warned. "That can lead only into the conditions, reproduced in a gigantic scale, that followed the last war and preceded this one."

PLANNING PROGRAMS

All over Canada, committees, commissions, boards and organizations are planning projects and programs for post-war rehabilitation, the premier stated.

"If you have followed carefully you will note that in every case public attention is being drawn to the projects, but is being steered away from the question of how the projects can be financed."

Mr. Manning said municipalities come to the government with practical post-war reconstruction projects, but invariably point out that they cannot pay the cost. "They are right," he said. "They cannot finance adequate post-war programs," he added.

The province in turn upsets the municipalities by imposing requirements and plans and submit the whole program to Ottawa. Here the province is told that it cannot finance cost of the projects, as does every province in the country.

HOPELESS SITUATION

"If the federal government is going to persist in keeping municipalities in the category of a glorified municipal council, when it asks all requirements from them, and if the country, there is no more hope of the government financing the program for all Canada than there is for a little municipality in the sticks to finance its post-war program," Mr. Manning declared.

He said there was a growing feeling that we should realize the fields of taxation. "Merely realigning the fields of taxation does not put one more cent into the pockets of the people who pay taxes," the premier warned.

People who say that because the country spends all kinds of money during wartime she can continue doing so after the war do not show deep thinking, he contended.

Canada's public debt in 1939 was $1,000,000,000 and at the end of the present fiscal year it will be $15,000,000,000, Mr. Manning said.

BIG INTEREST LOAN

The interest of billions of dollars, is $400,000,000 at the current rate—about $46,300 an hour paid on the public debt during the whole year.

In 1943, the per capita debt in Canada was $41.18. In 1953 it was $109.45. In 1959, $278.62, and in 1964, $499.23 for every man, woman and child in the country.

The 1944 per capita debt works out to an average of $42.90 for every Canadian family, Mr. Manning said. "And yet there are some people who think that by re-aligning the fields of taxation and by borrowing, we can finance adequate post-war programs. That is absolutely impossible."

The great delusion of the present day is that by taxation and borrowing, the people of the country can finance post-war rehabilitation schemes, listeners were told. As consequences of the delusion, the schemes are foredoomed to failure and in the process of failure.

EXPOSE FALSE HOPE

It is the duty of every man and woman convinced of the facts to expose the fallacies of false hopes of the Canadian people today, Mr. Manning declared. The people must be aroused to their responsibility in the matter, and men and women must be shown an alternative to the course offered today.

He said the way to remove the cages of future war would be to remove the breeding-grounds of deplorable social and economic conditions under which we have had to live. "All times that have risen to plique this world, and

Liberal Leader
Raps Business
Control in Sask.

REGINA, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Premier Leader W. J. Patterson (L-Canadians) said in a CBC province-wide broadcast last night that private business in Saskatchewan now was subject to "the decision or caprice" of CCF government cabinet ministers.

Speaking on a CBC free time broadcast, the former Liberal premier said greater centralization of power and authority in the government had resulted from the recent special session of the Saskatchewan cabinet.

"Summing up the session, it can be said that practically every minister emerged from it with greater powers," said Mr. Patterson.

"Many of these enlargements of authority involved a corresponding increase or restriction of local autonomy."

"... The reason given is that these changes are being made for the benefit of the people. That reason of course is the one always given by any authority, whether an individual or a group, in moving in the direction of totalitarianism."

Mr. Patterson asserted the government had surrounded itself with technical and economic advisers and that it was "not a government of men but of machines."

Premier T. C. Douglas in the introduction to his address to the CCF program to be adopted was already determined and all the members had to vote for their approval to that program, he said.

"The legislative assembly, in other words, was not to regard itself as a free and deliberative body but an automatic machine to rubber-stamp approval of decisions made elsewhere by others. This was a far departure from the principles and traditions of British parliamentary government but an indication of the move towards centralization of authority."

Amendments to the Natural Resources Department Act gave the minister power to "expurgate anything he considers necessary to carry out his operations." Such authority, while it provided for compensation, would have the effect of retarding, if not stopping, prospecting, exploratory and development activities in the province, said Liberal leader.

In charge of Alberta's political affairs, he has earned the admiration of everybody. "He has undertaken a tremendous responsibility at a time when it requires the best brains and resourcefulness to meet the very serious problems we are confronted with today."

Every scheme offered to date for a new world order has been drafted by the same gang of international pirates that was in control of our world before the war began," Mr. Fallow stated. "The same gang that was responsible for bringing the world to the verge of the economic disaster."

Every political party in Canada except Social Credit is in sympathy with world order plans, the minister said. "If we are foolish enough to submit to them, we will have allowed ourselves to be led into a world slave state that will set the time of time back 1,000 years."

At the Premier's "baby" plan, Mr. Fallow said "only a bachelor could have thought of it. He said that the minister would offer Canadian women a pair of nylon stockings for every pair of socks they bought."

Every patriotic citizen of the country are doing their utmost to win the war, the Dominion government has called a special session of parliament, to decide the issue must of us thought decided three years ago by people," Mr. Fallow declared.

Entertainment of the program was provided by W. J. Jones, Miss Lillian Chomick, Jack Jones, Miss Una Palmer and Clement Schreder, Lollis, and Walter Hay, who presented a Ukrainian style dance.

Mrs. S. E. Carter arranged the entertainment, and provided piano accompaniment.

Ald. Sidney Bowcott, who was elected chairman of the Edmonton city council's finance committee at the inaugural meeting of the committee held Wednesday at Civic Block.

He was also elected chairman of the Edmonton Sink Fund Board.

All dictators, have arisen from discontent of men and women," the premier continued.

At outset of his address he congratulated convention delegates on their application to convention business, and for enthusiasm of work undertaken.

Mr. Fallow asserted men and women on boards and bureaus today are being chosen to ensure their overalls will be supreme and to shelter the government from attack.

"The radio is the greatest instrument of science has yet given to mankind, but because of its monopoly value it has been sold into custody of the highest bidder. Mr. Fallow charged. As a result, the air is filled with 'soap operas,' political propaganda and high priced salesmanship."

"The radio has been added to the large list of monopolies controlled and used for the benefit of the few."

"The government of Alberta has not denied a commercial broadcasting licence for their station CKUA. The principal point of objection raised by the CCF government board when I appeared before them requesting the commercial licence for CKUA was that it might have a bad financial record. It was the only one they seemed to be concerned about."

INDIVIDUAL FIRST
Mr. Fallow continued. They did not hesitate to assert that the right of a single individual to succeed over one end of 80,000 people of Alberta."

The minister urged people to rise and put an end to "political pinheading" by using the power which has been sold into the hands of a few. He said that nothing should be done to stand in the way of forcing a strong fighting while out of coast-to-coast links of the Dominion Social Credit organization.
